Seed Booking

We have been busy putting seed programs together and attending seed meetings the last few weeks to get ready for the Fall booking season. We are extremely excited and happy with how all the canola, sunflower, soybean, and corn hybrids have looked and performed this growing season. Although we are still awaiting yield results from the row crops all signs are pointing to a successful harvest. It is time to start planning what crops and hybrids are going to be planted next year. Early booking programs are always the best deal to lock in the specific varieties you want to plant. Contact your sales representative to discuss what Mycogen, Croplan, or Invigor hybrids will be the best fit on your farm.
